

Wintery greetings dear HSPs,

If you are in the U.S. most likely you are experiencing winter ! Here in Colorado our winters tend to be magical, except with this latest blast of arctic air, these below freezing temperatures are anything but magical.

In typical " P " fashion (those familiar with the Myers Briggs will know what I am referring to here) I am late in sending out my announcement and invitation to my HSP Free Write Wednesdays.

These started out as an experiment to bring some creativity and connection to my Covid days ... They have provided that and so much more.

There is still time for you to join us this Wednesday Feb 17th.

In the next full issue of HSP Highlights & Insights, which I will send soon, I will be sharing other opportunities for HSPs to gather and learn from one another.

Stay safe, well, and warm,

Jacquelyn
